Being a senior class officer for the Class of 1988 wasn't as easy as it seemed. There was actually a tremendous amount of work involved. Officers Todd Secker, President; Erica Hade, Vice-president; Sandy Caswell, Treasurer; and Roger Johansen, Secretary; were responsible for much of what went on at Homecoming, especially the decorations and the arrangement of the entertainment. Although as Roger admitted, "The most difficult thing was trying to decide on a certain thing that pleases everyone." The officers met many mornings with the senior advisors Mr. Semon and Mrs. Fouts to make important decisions such as choosing the Homecoming theme and decorations and finalizing the plans for Senior Dinner Dance and Graduation. The class officers also kept busy in other activities this year. Todd was a member of the Tennis team, Erica belonged to the Cross Country and Track teams and the Lan-Hi staff, Sandy was part of the Pom-pon squad and Tennis team, and Roger performed with the Cross Country team and the Tennis team. Being a class officer had some advantages, too. As Sandy said, "One of the best things is just being involved in the events that take place."

P lanning Ahead

When seniors were asked what their plans were for next year, most replied that they would be attending college or working at a full time job. In preparation for next year, senior John Laurik said he would have to, "Study, Study, Study!" and Don Goff said, "I have lots and lots of decisions to make." Was senior year hectic?? "Yes, it doesn't seem like there are enough hours in the day for school, work, friends and family," replied Caren Sablotny. But Denise Durham countered with, "No more than usual." Everyone knows that making decisions about the future is difficult and even a bit scary. It takes time, thought, and an infinite amount of patience to decide one's future, but the Class of '88 has the ability to succeed at whatever they attempt to accomplish.

B oy, Was My Face Red!

"Do seniors really get embarrassed? You bet they do! While many people surveyed admitted that their most embarrassing moment had to be either falling down the stairs, getting in trouble with the police, or crashing their car, some people revealed some really blushing moments.

Angie Farmer — "I wore orange and black striped underwear under my pom-pom lollies at a basketball game, and when I did a somersault everyone could see all the stripes."

Melody Selby — "Skipping class and then being stupid enough to turn myself in."

Jodee Compton — "When I fell on my butt at a basketball game and slid across the floor all the way over to the band."

Tina Baumgartner — "Sophomore year when I had to get up in front of the whole school and be Princess Leah in a skit."

Ola Ross — "When I went to see 'Desperately Seeking Susan,' I was singing along with the movie and the song ended and I kept singing."

Roger Johansen — "When I walked around with a fabric softener sticking to my pant leg."

Danny Conway — "Freshman year, our basketball team was playing against Lincoln, and I made two points for the other team."

Anonymous — "Punching my locker because I couldn't get it open, only to find out it wasn't my locker after all."

Brad Kriener — "Going into the wrong classroom and waiting for my name to be called and realizing I was in the wrong class."

George Hartman — "My 10th grade year I was running to catch an infield fly and fell in the mud. I was covered from head to toe."

Kala Young — "When my gum fell out of my mouth while I was talking to the guy I wanted to ask to prom."

Ron Jackson — "My whole freshman year!"

So, the next time you embarrass yourself, don't feel bad, everyone gets embarrassed sometime — even if they think, as Ric Akers does that they're, "not the embarrassed type!"

A t the Top

Did you ever wonder what it was like to be really smart, to be #1 or #2 in the class? For Steve Lawrence (#1) and Duane Marzinzik (#2) this was a reality every day. Not only were they intelligent, but they were also involved in many other activities. Steve was on the track and cross country teams, co-captain of the Braintrust team, president of the German Club, and treasurer of the Computer-Math Club. Duane was on the baseball team, treasurer of the German Club, and vice-president of the Computer-Math Club. Both Steve and Duane aimed high for college. Steve will go to Case Western Reserve University or the University of Illinois and major in Engineering and Business Administration. Duane will attend the University of Illinois and major in Computer Engineering or Computer Science. Steve was also a finalist for the National Merit Scholarship Competition. Both said "A's aren't always easy for me . . . it depends on the class." According to Steve, being #1 was "a goal for which I had always strived and seeing it accomplished, I have to say it was worth the effort." Duane said "Being #2 is not as good as #1, but I'll take it."

Growing Pains

Being a senior is only one step away from being an adult, and soon most of us will be on our own in the "real world." We will turn eighteen (if we haven't already) and magically become an "adult." Seniors speak out on some of the best and worst things about turning eighteen, and their feelings about going into the "real world."

John Schwarberg — "Two years ago I couldn't even spell college man . . . now I am one."

Allyce Adams-Smith — "Having to accept life as it really is and face the real world."

Joe Hackl — "Getting charged as an adult for everything."

Lloyd Noyes — "I'll be able to vote and voice my opinion."

Jason David — "I'm fired up and ready to face it."

Matt Lorton — "I feel pretty good about it except nobody's gonna be there to hold my hand anymore, and if I make a mistake nobody's there to take the blame but me."

Anonymous — "Registering for the draft!"

Jeris Redpath — "The best thing is becoming or being treated like an adult. The worst thing is having to act like one."

Brad Davis — "Leaving your school days behind."

John Goodwin — "You won't have the security of seeing your friends every day."

The "real world" . . . hmmm . . . does it start after high school, or are we in it already? The answers are varied.

Jason Lewis, Brad Garcia, and Andy Simpson aren't at all worried about going into the "real world."

Phobia

Will the first year at college be the worst or the very best of all? Will it be like freshman year at LHS all over again, but at a bigger school? Will we be looked down upon by upperclassmen? How do you feel about it?

John Laurik and Eric Nichols — "You have to start somewhere."

Mike Kapusta — "Well, I don't know, but I've heard that freshmen have the most fun."

Kala Young — "PETRIFIED!"

Steve Loper — "It sure beats the heck out of being a senior in high school again!"

Matt Lorton — "It's like starting all over again, I guess. You'll be the new kid on the block, just like high school. I guess I'll be a little scared, because I don't know what to expect."

Ric Akers — "I think it should be fun, but at the same time, remember what I'm there for and get that big Bachelor's degree."

The thought of going to that big college somewhere away from all the securities of LHS is a little bit scary, as most would agree, but there is a bright side. As you sit in that university professor's class, wide-eyed and scared, remember one thing: You're not alone, you're there with many other freshmen who probably feel the exact same way as you do. So, enjoy!

Underclass Antics

Relationships with underclassmen are a big part of a senior's life. Part of the fun of being a senior laughing at the antics of the underclassmen and looking back and laughing at the things we did when we were underclassmen. Some of the sillier things some seniors have seen underclassmen do (outside of buying elevator passes) are:

Ken Swaggerty — "Try to tell Mr. Ervin that he was wrong."

Steve Lawrence — "Walk into the wrong bathroom."

Chris Aut — "Ask Mr. Wilson where Mr. Wilson's room is."

Tom Brummett — "Throw books out a window."

Seniors have been through much of what the underclassmen face. Because of this, there are a few things some seniors would like to tell them:

Jenni Johnson — "Be an individual and don't let others influence you."

John Schwarberg — "A teacher is a teacher, until they're writing you up, then they're Mr. or Mrs. Teacher."

Michelle Johnson — "High school isn't anything to be afraid of and that the seniors don't really mean the things that they say about underclassmen."

Kelly Redpath — "Have fun while you can, cause it flies!"

One of the things the seniors will miss most as they leave Lanphier are all their underclass friends. They may leave these friends behind, but they will take their memories with them.

Senior Mike Paulauskis gives freshman Mark Marinelli advice about the Lanphier women.

the Moments

According to Lora Gharst, "When I leave LHS, I will remember all the fun times I have had with all the new friends that I have made over the years." Friends and fun times are what most people said they will remember most about Lanphier, but there are other memorable things, too.

Jason Rodhouse — "The aches and pains of going up and down three flights of stairs every hour."

Jamie Jywook — "Hopefully everything I've learned in class."

Tina Baumgartner — "All the thousands of guys I've fallen in love with."

John Schwarberg — "The first thing I think of when I think about Lanphier High School is the name; therefore, all laws of physics, nature, and the county say that this is probably what I will remember most . . . the name of the school."

Brad Kriener — "The pride that is put into the school, and the teachers who make the school what it is."

Roger Johansen — "The Herculooids!"

Ken Swaggerty — "When Coach Halberg was thinking of leaving LHS my senior year."

Obviously, there are going to be a lot of good memories leaving Lanphier along with the graduating seniors.

Kenny Swaggerty and Denise Durheim remember the good times.

D estination Unknown

Where will you be in twenty years? Hawaii, the Caribbean, driving a Porsche, making $100,000 a year? Several of the people surveyed hoped to be married, living in a nice house with a good job in the career of their choice, but some people dreamed of other things.

Tina Jenkins — "On Broadway with seventeen gold albums and twenty-seven number one hits."

Missy Hiess — "Traveling around the world, studying different cultures."

Ed Myers — "On the best seller list."

John Schwarberg — "Looking for Lebanon."

Ron Ruzic — "Living in a house I built out in the woods, overlooking a big lake, surrounded by the natural habitat."

Becky Bahr — "Living in California in a big house by the ocean, writing for a big magazine, maybe the 'National Enquirer.'"

Janna Saladino — "Looking for my 129th car."

Denise Durheim — "Owning my own travel agency."

Darrell Oller — "In professional baseball."

Patty Biesiada — "Living in New York working in some kind of theater job."

Craig McCreery — "Married to Melody S."

Brad Davis — "Teacher or an administrator at LHS."

Jason David — "In some big city with E.H."

Speak Up

Last September, the Class of '88 was asked for their ideas for Senior Privileges, and here are some of their suggestions.

Kenny Swaggerty — "Pick our teachers."

Lisa Buchanan — "Choose our lockers."

Jason David — "Longer lunch."

Becky Bahr — "Special place for seniors to hang out (senior lounge)."

Jason Osbourne — "Use Jewel parking lot."

Craig McCreery and Lloyd Noyes — "First floor lockers."

Kevin Knowski — "Get out of school earlier."

Anonymous — "No graduation fees — we've earned it."

Several People — "Free parking." "College days that don't count against attendance record." "Be able to eat and drink in class."

Should seniors have special privileges, or as Duane Marzinzik said, "No one should have special privileges, everyone should be treated equally." You decide.

Eric Nichols and Michelle Johnson wishing that they had first floor main hallway lockers.

Senior Favorites

Below: Need Someone to talk to? Call on Tina Jenkins and Al Baidy. They're everyone's best friend.

Above: Keeping fit and trim and eating right seems to be the specialty of Todd Secker and Denise Durham, best bodies of the senior class.

Above Left: Together forever. Jeni Burkard and Brett Long have kept it going since February 22, 1985.

Left: Duh, I don't know. What do you think? Zoe Wright and Richard Unthank spend the day looking for the elevator.

Senior Favorites

Above: "They're coming to take us away Hee! Hee!" They're coming to take Mike Skaggs and Bianca Clark back to the crazy farm.

Right: "Bright-Eyed and Bushy-Tailed" Sandy Caswell and Ron Ruzic flash us those baby blues.

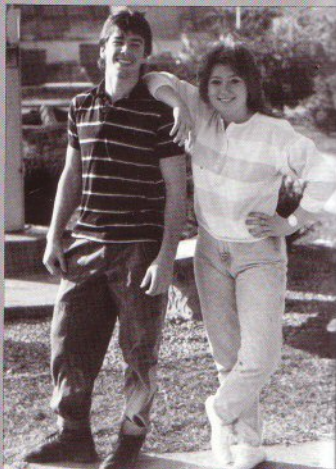

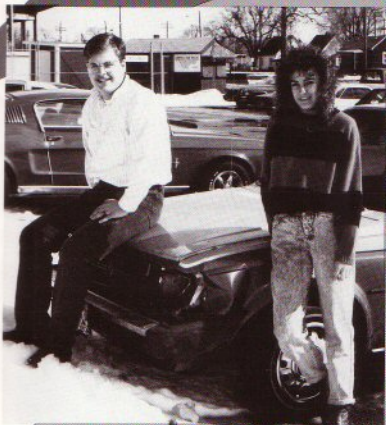

Left: She's "got the look" that all the guys desire — It's Denise Durham. Below Left: Everybody's watching him. Danny Conway is the focus of every girls' desire. Left: Go! Fight! Win! Jeff Rajaski and Tina Jenkins always cheer the loudest at the LHS sports' events.

Below: Buddies to the end. Jodee Compton, Brenda Adams, Terri Sommer, and Tina Baumgartner are sure to be life long friends.

Homecoming '87

The Final Touch to an Eventful Week

Homecoming day 1987 kicked off to a great start. Despite the cold and rainy weather during the morning parade, the fun remained alive. Following the show of school spirit was the exciting football game against Pekin that was won by the mighty Lions 13-12. The members of the team succeeded in defeating the enemy by one victorious point. The moments were intense as the young men of the football team participated in making a special effort in hopes for a win.

The day was completed with the annual semi-formal Homecoming Dance. The band that provided the music was Starry Eye. Students gathered in the old gym to dance to various music by the band. Lanphier alumni were welcome to return to old memories of high school. It was a fun-filled night for many.

The highlight of the evening arrived when the 1987 Homecoming Court was announced and Artina Jenkins was crowned queen. Along with the ten other court members, these eleven girls were escorted by their dates to dance to the theme of "The Best Is Yet To Come" and participate in a memory that would linger in the minds of all who attended.

1987 Homecoming Queen Artina Jenkins escorted by Marcus Harris.
